The team at the City of Tallapoosa and The Haralson County Board of Commissioners are proud to announce they have teamed up for the rezoning and annexation of 1000 acres in Tallapoosa (total of 1600 acres.) The City Council approved the rezoning on Monday night, May 11, in a public meeting. This is the largest development project of its kind between Tallapoosa and Haralson County in the county's history. The Haralson County Development Authority is now authorized to market the land for industrial development which could allow for a manufacturing plant, a distribution warehouse, or a data center. The community will benefit from a corporation that creates jobs, expands corporate tax base, and inspires ancillary economic growth. No development partners have been contracted but the Mayor of Tallapoosa, Brett Jones, and Chairman of the Haralson County Board of Commissioners, Brian L. Walker, reiterated that the group is committed to only entertaining safe and productive uses of this industrial-savvy land in Haralson County.

The City of Tallapoosa, The Haralson County Board of Commissioners and the Haralson County Development Authority will host a community forum once a deal has been secured and the elected officials are confident that it is the best fit for our community. At this forum, the group will address all community concerns.
